

Les Limons de Chauffry

This hamlet in the Grand-Morin Valley is part of the town of Chauffry. In the early 19th century, Chauffry church was in danger of collapsing. It was demolished in 1847, and rebuilt near the rectory, to connect the town of Chauffry with the hamlet Les Limons.

The church was dedicated to the immaculate heart of Mary (hence its name) and blessed by the Bishop of Meaux the same year. In danger of falling to ruin again, it was demolished in 1986 and rebuilt on the site of the 13th-century church, and named after St-Sulpice.

In the early 20th century, the Société Nobel française (SNF) which manufactured celluloid dolls, set up shop in Chauffry. It provided jobs for the inhabitants of Chauffry, with 250 workers at the biggest of the five plants. It was still running in 1953, but has since closed.
